CORN COMMENTS

There was very little talk concerning corn today. Delta harvest has started and yields are very high. Weekly export sales released today were in-line with expectations. Expect a choppy trade until next week.

SOYBEAN COMPLEX

The tough transition from old to new crop continues with the Sep contract very volatile. As with corn, the Delta harvest continues with a rain-induced pause over the weekend. Yields there are excellent. The market is holding this week's early selloff. It appears that that the market is now trading water, waiting for more direction. The trend is still down and it is advisable to avoid any long positions in the new crop.
